Morogoro Regional Hospital end this week nabbed Karume Habibu (22), a resident of Liti in Kigoma Region, for pretending to be a medical officer in attempts to obtain money from clients at the regional medical facility.

Habibu was nabbed after one medical nurse reported the suspect to the management resulting into cornering him.

The Acting Regional Medical Officer Francis Samwene told the media that a team of 12 medical experts interrogated the suspect, revealed he was a lay man and dismissed him as a fake common criminal.

He said the culprit admitted he was using different identity cards to conduct his illegal activities, further saying he was practising his illegal business for weeks.

He added that his true identity card is secondary school certificate, identifying him as private candidate. But he was wearing a white apron similar to that of medical staff.

The Morogoro Regional Police Commander Leonard Paulo said the man had IDs, showing he was a re-seaters from The Great Education centre in Morogoro Municipality and another showing he completed secondary education in Kigoma Region in 2012.
